

New Golf Course to Open on Labor Day

Formal opening of the new Sea-Aire pitch-and-putt golf course, 22730 Lupine Dr., will be on Labor Day, according to Harry Van Bellehem, Torrance recreation director.

City officials will play the first practice round at 10 a.m. on Monday, Sept. 2, he said. After that the course will be open to the public.

Hours Told

The course will be open from 10 a.m. to dusk every day except Mondays, with tournament play scheduled from 1:30 to 6 p.m. on Wednesdays and Thursdays. Golf classes will be held from 10 to 11 a.m. and from 1:30 to 2:30 p.m. on Tuesdays.

It will be open to persons over 16 years old or children between 12 and 16, if accompanied by adults.

Charges of 50 cents per round will be made, with rental fees on clubs and golf balls. A deposit also is required on the balls. Golfers may use their own equipment, but clubs will be limited to putters and 7, 8, and 9 clubs.

24-Par Course

Par for the course will be 24, with six 3-par holes and three 2-par holes. The approach putt, not usually found on the standard 3-par course, will be featured on the course. The 2-pars will give the golfer a long approach of from 60 to 120 feet, deepening on location of the marker. The putter probably will be the favorite club.

The rolling hillside location and the novelty of the 2-par holes should make the Torrance course one of the most popular in the area, according to Verne Wickham of the National Golf Foundation.

GETTING THEIR IRONS READY . . . Getting their putting irons in shape to play on the new Sea-Aire pitch-and-putt golf course are Betty Hope and Judy Wright. Recreation officials said the new course in Sea-Aire Park will open on Labor Day, with city officials slated to play the first round.
